Blue Monday

This morning I woke up late, my alarm did not go off. But I still had some time on hand. I made the bed and all was going according to plan. And that is when it all started.

I first went to the toilet, and when I decided to flush the toilet, no water came out, I tried again and again. The toilet is broken, and the most terrible smell ever is now coming from it. I look at the watch and realized I can't fix it now, I am late. I started to shave and then nicked myself with the razor. It was bleeding, but I had no time to worry about it. I was getting later.

As I got into the shower to turn on the hot water, there wasn't any, so here we go, a cold shower. Then I realized that I forgot to buy shampoo, soap it will be today. Then I got dressed and because I was in a rush, I ripped off one of my shirt's buttons. Grab another shirt, nothing will match today. The nick on my face was still bleeding, I decided to put some of my girlfriend's makeup on it, and it burned, and just looked very bad.

Back into the bathroom to do my hair, oh no, the smell, I can't be in here. I almost threw up. One two three, hold your breath, aaaaauuuhh. My hair is done.

There is no time to have breakfast today, I will grab something at the office. As I got to my motorcycle, I saw I had a flat tyre. I will have to catch a bus today to go to work. Maybe I should just go back to bed, or not, that smell will kill me. I think I should phone the plumber.
